Revised Section 508 Report

Notes:

Chapter 3: Functional Performance Criteria (FPC)

Notes:

Criteria	Conformance Level	Remarks and Explanations
302.1 Without Vision	Supports	BVA's mobile application fully supports operation without vision. The user interface layout is built using native platform accessibility layers (iOS Accessibility Elements and Android Accessibility Nodes). All functional UI elements, labels, buttons, and calendar events are programmatically descriptive and fully compatible with mobile screen readers (VoiceOver on iOS and TalkBack on Android) and Refreshable Braille Displays, as verified via manual testing by our internal DHS-Certified Trusted Tester.
302.2 With Limited Vision	Supports	BVA's mobile application fully accommodates users with limited vision by integrating seamlessly with platform-level dynamic text scaling and contrast adjustments. Interactive UI elements reflow fluidly up to 200% zoom configurations (Dynamic Type on iOS and Font Size adjustments on Android) without text clipping, structural layout distortion, component line truncation, or loss of interactive touch targeting.
302.3 Without Perception of Color	Supports	BVA's mobile application ensures that color is never utilized as the exclusive visual baseline to convey critical user status updates, interactive tracking boundaries, or navigational cues. Alternative typographic weights, explicit descriptive text labels, and contrasting geometric borders are embedded into all design paths (such as RSVP workflows, attendance check-ins, and discovery feeds) to provide clear information independent of color perception.

Criteria	Conformance Level	Remarks and Explanations
302.4 Without Hearing	Supports	BVA's mobile application does not contain or broadcast any audio-only or synchronized video multimedia features across its current student event discovery or attendance flows. Because the application's entire notification matrix and information architecture are strictly text- and graphic-based, its core operational workflows are fully usable without hearing.
302.5 With Limited Hearing	Supports	BVA's mobile application requires zero mandatory audio-based components or real-time auditory notifications to navigate discoverable events or check into university sessions. All system alerts, user registration actions, and operational instructions are reinforced through high-visibility textual, graphical, and haptic modalities.
302.6 Without Speech	Supports	BVA's mobile application features zero interactive tools, sign-in procedures, or navigation pathways that require spoken inputs or vocal feedback commands. All application functionalities are driven exclusively through touch inputs, standard hardware keyboards, or native assistive switch control devices.
302.7 With Limited Manipulation	Supports	BVA's mobile application is built to be fully operable using native accessibility touch tracking loops and can be navigated effortlessly using external hardware keyboards or wireless assistive switch controls. The application avoids complex multi-finger path actions, drawing gestures, or fast timed interactions, ensuring all discovery list cards and form fields provide generous touch targets and focus visibility.
302.8 With Limited Reach and Strength	Supports	BVA's mobile application operates entirely within standard commercial handheld smartphone viewport profiles and does not dictate any physical modifications to the underlying mobile hardware devices. Operational control targets are arranged layout-fluidly to support standard single-handed interaction limits without requiring structural reach extensions or significant physical force.
302.9 With Limited Language, Cognitive, and Learning Abilities	Supports	BVA's mobile application incorporates predictable and consistent user interface patterns, intuitive system headings, and clear formatting guidelines throughout its event workflows. To assist users with cognitive and learning variations, form entries provide descriptive real-time error identification and structured data-correction suggestions, as manually verified by our internal evaluation controls.

502.3 Accessibility Services	Heading cell – no response required	Heading cell – no response required
502.3.1 Object Information	Supports	The programmatic name, logical role, current state, and bounding coordinates of all interactive layouts are systematically exposed to platform accessibility layers via native iOS Accessibility Elements and Android Accessibility Nodes
502.3.2 Modification of Object Information	Supports	Active controls allow state and programmatic property tracking to be modified dynamically using standard operating system accessibility API inputs and control loops
502.3.3 Row, Column, and Headers	Supports	Scrollable data layouts, list views (such as event discovery feeds), and calendar grids programmatically expose complete row and column cell relationship matrices to assistive readers
502.3.4 Values	Supports	Current value properties, entry percentages, and text strings from input forms are programmatically determinable by mobile screen readers

Criteria	Conformance Level	Remarks and Explanations
502.3.5 Modification of Values	Supports	For any user-editable input elements, values can be directly altered programmatically through system assistive input protocols
502.3.6 Label Relationships	Supports	Visual text labels, system icons, and placeholder strings are programmatically associated with their corresponding interactive touch controls or input containers
502.3.7 Hierarchical Relationships	Supports	The application preserves clear parent-child container structures across complex nested view hierarchies, maintaining an intuitive element tracking order for linear navigation
502.3.8 Text	Supports	Plain text blocks, screen titles, and structural metadata strings are programmatically exposed, allowing text boundary selections and line/word/character screen reader processing
502.3.9 Modification of Text	Supports	Input form areas allow users to modify, clear, or input text blocks using system accessibility keyboard controls and programmatic scripts
502.3.10 List of Actions	Supports	Interactive features expose their available operations (such as standard tap activations, selection toggles, or list expansions) programmatically to the OS accessibility engine
502.3.11 Actions on Objects	Supports	Available element actions can be seamlessly executed programmatically via screen reader shortcuts or alternative wireless switch control hardware
502.3.12 Focus Cursor	Supports	The active input cursor and visual accessibility highlight ring are programmatically tracked and exposed across state reloads
502.3.13 Modification of Focus Cursor	Supports	Programmatic focus cursor tracking coordinates can be directly adjusted, shifted, or navigated using native platform accessibility navigation paradigms
